OLDEST SALESMAN GIVES INTERVIEW

H. B. ESSINGTON, HERE TODAY, IS 93 YEARS OLD.

TRAVELED FOR 55 YEARS

Eats Very Little Meat, Takes Plenty of Exercise, and Smokes Three Times a Day.

The oldest traveling salesman in the United States was in Maryville today.

H. B. Essington, of St. Louis, who sells the Eldredge sewing machines, will be 94 years old Sunday. He has been traveling since 1867, and came to Maryville long before a railroad was here. His first trip to this city was by wagon away back in the early '70s, and the town consisted of only a few shabby business places and some scattering dwelling houses.

Mr. Essington looks to be about 50 years old, and is as active as a man of that age. He is in full possession of all his faculties and says that he will be selling sewing machines when he reaches the century mark of life.

In an interview with a Democrat-Forum reporter this morning, Mr. Essington told of his experiences in the Civil War. He enlisted as a captain and was a colonel at the closing of hostilities. He was wounded six times in battle, and the scars are still visible.

He was formerly a boxing instructor in St. Louis and accounts for his activity because of his early training.

Mr. Essington has one hobby and that is fishing. During the month of July he whiles away many hours on the banks of a stream trying to outwit the elusive fish. Every fishing trip makes him ten years younger, he asserted this morning.

Noticing that the old salesman was contentedly puffing at a big cigar, the reporter called attention to this.

"Oh, yes," the aged man of the road responded, "I smoke a little—three cigars a day, one after each meal. I think it helps me. But I haven't been smoking long—only about forty-two years now."

Mr. Essington accounts for his long life by his habit of eating sparingly of all meats. He claims that more people die on account of excessive meat eating than are killed or wounded on the battle fields of war.

"Why I hardly eat meat at all," he said, "I think it is the worst thing a person can do. In fact, I am a very light eater at all times. I think it is far better to eat too little than too much. I only drink coffee for breakfast, and drink milk and buttermilk for dinner and supper. Then, I drink lots of water, take plenty of exercise, and get my full portion of sleep. If any person will follow this same course, he should live a long time."

Mr. Essington is not only a believer in fishing, but in boxing and outdoor athletic sports as well. He says that this is the best way to rest the brain, and that the brain needs rest just as much as the body.

He not only sells sewing machines but gives demonstrations as well. He has won a number of prizes at the St. Louis and Chicago World Fairs on his fancy work. He works rapidly but not at the expense of quality.

Concluding the interview, he said to the Democrat-Forum reporter, "I am going to sell machines until I am 100 years old, then I may settle down and wait for old age."

Want Transfers Set Aside by the Court

A suit was filed in circuit court this morning, with G. F. Gray and H. P. Gray as plaintiffs and Harvey E. Bradley and Elmer H. Beauchamp as defendants.

The petition of suit states that in the April, 1923, term of circuit court, the plaintiffs were awarded two judgments for $525.75 and $602.36 against the defendant, Bradley. The plaintiffs in the suit contend that he transferred certain property to avert payment of these judgments. The petition asks the court to set aside the transfers and assignments, made by Bradley.

The eighth A grade won first place in the project work that has been carried on during the past semester by the grade pupils at the Central school building.

This was announced at the closing assembly, held at nine o'clock this morning. The eighth A grade, under the direction of Miss Mary Ford, published a magazine, as their project. This magazine was entitled "The Winner," and a copy was made for each pupil, in the class. All of the work was that of the pupils.

The eighth B grade and the sixth A grade, tied for second place, for their project work. The pupils of the eighth B grade, under the direction of Miss Allie Worst, compiled a history of the civil war. The sixth A pupils, under the direction of Mrs. L. E. Ziegler, accomplished as their project, "A Comparative Study of Feudalism."

Last semester, the eighth A grade won a silver loving cup, for the project work done. The winning of the first place in project work, this semester, means that the grade gets to keep the cup for another half-year. Miss Fannie Hope presented the cup, at the assembly, this morning.

The Maryville chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, at the beginning of the semester, offered medals to the pupils in the seventh and eighth grades, who made the greatest advancement in history during the semester. The pupils in each grade that made the most advancement was to receive a medal. Mrs. G. H. Colbert, representing the Maryville chapter, presented the medals at the assembly, this morning. In the eighth grade, Emmet Kinney of the eighth B class won the medal. Cleola Dawson, of the eighth A, ran a close second. In the seventh grade contest, Grace Westfall, won the medal. She was a pupil of the seventh A grade. Isabel Hamlin of the seventh B, was second.

Superintendent Ziegler made a talk to the grade pupils at the assembly.

This is the last day of school for the grade pupils. They will return tomorrow, for their grades.

NEWSPAPER WOMEN WILL NOT GET RICH

MISS BEATRIX WINN TELLS JOURNALISTS AT COLUMBIA

MANY OF THEM MARRY

Statistics Gathered By Maryville Woman Showed Rapid Turnover Of Women Employees

Miss Beatrix Winn, head of the English department at the State Teachers College, managing editor of the Green and White Courier, and secretary of the Northwest Missouri Press Association, spoke on "The Opportunities of Women in Journalism" to the visitors to Journalism Week, Tuesday morning.

The fourteenth annual meeting of journalists is being held under the auspices of the School of Journalism of the University of Missouri this week. Newspaper men and women from all over America are attending the sessions which are being held in Jay H. Neff Hall, the new home of the School of Journalism. The following is a portion of Miss Winn's speech taken from the Columbia Missourian:

"Women in the newspaper world will not get rich, but there is something fascinating about a business in which the glint of gold is incidental," said Miss Beatrix Winn, secretary of the Northwest Missouri Press Association.

"A girl who is determined can succeed," she went on "In newspaper offices, as in other offices, the women begin as drudges. Women are changing and growing now. As they change and grow they demand better places. They demand better places in the new journalism. They can furnish better journalism for women."

Miss Winn explained that she felt a little out of place speaking to journalists since she is not a journalist in the full sense of the word. She manages the paper of the Northwest Teachers' Association and is a member of the faculty of the Northwest Missouri State Teachers' College, Maryville. When the Northwest Press Association made her paper their own she was made secretary of the association.

Miss Winn went to four sources for information for her talk; the editors of some representative papers of this country, four representative schools of journalism, books, and some dozen of graduates of these schools.

"After comparison, I find that it is very difficult to say anything that would be true of all women in journalism. But, I find that they all have one common problem: how to get into journalism, how to stay in journalism, and how to stay happy in journalism."

Miss Winn found that editors and schools and women journalists all agree that the long hours and straining character of the work make against women's success in ordinary journalism. They do best in special departments such as the women's department, dramatic reviews, book reviews and society departments.

There is an increasing number, however, of women who are making good in unspecialized journalism, she said.

"Because women are on a different footing with men, they cannot mingle easily with men of affairs and get the news.

"Editors also complain of the great turnover among the women members of their staffs. Such a large percentage of them get married."

She found that of the eighty-six women journalists that Columbia University graduated between 1913-1922, more than 20 per cent were married after their first few years in journalism. Thirty per cent of the women graduates of the University of Missouri School of Journalism were married after their first few years in journalism.

"Women do not shine as editorial writers or as executives, but they do make good in the advertising and publicity fields," Miss Winn declared.

TO SELL POPPIES THREE DAYS HERE

WILL BE SOLD ON STREETS FOR V. F. W. DISABLED.

PROCLAMATION ISSUED

Mayor Asks Maryville Citizens Give Sincere Cooperation to the Cause.

Saturday of this week and Monday and Tuesday of next week have been designated as "Poppy Days" by Mayor W. O. Garrett in a proclamation issued late yesterday afternoon. On these days, poppies will be sold on the streets by solicitors at 10 cents apiece, the proceeds to go to alleviate the suffering of the disabled veterans of the World War.

In a leter to Col. L. T. Huston, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, President Harding has expressed hearty approval of the Poppy Day plan, which the Veterans of Foreign Wars have inaugurated and are fostering in this country as a means both of paying tribute to the dead of the World War as well as of helping the living.

More than forty states will observe Poppy Day this year. All proceeds from the sale of poppies are to go for the relief of ex-service men who are disabled.

Each poppy to be sold will bear the label "Honor the dead by helping the living." The custom of wearing poppies on Memorial Day was started several years ago.

The proclamation issued by Mayor Garrett is as follows:

Proclamation

Whereas, the President of the United States has expressed the hope that, in accordance with the custom already established, through the symbol of the poppy worn on Memorial Day the people of these United States shall again pay tribute to their soldier-dead, and

Whereas, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, which organization has been officially designated to support the poppy movement, will cause to be sold poppies to be worn on Memorial Day in commemoration of the heroism of our World War dead, the proceeds of such sales to be used for alleviating the condition of their disabled comrades.

Now, therefore, I, W. O. Garrett, mayor of Maryville, earnestly urge that the citizens of this city give their sincere co-operation to this cause which has for its purpose the commemoration of the sacrifices of those who gave their lives or their health in the defense of their country.

(Signed) W. O. Garrett. Dated, May 23, 1923.

SUMMER TEACHERS FOR S. T. C. NAMED

ANNOUNCEMENT MADE TODAY OF FIVE NEW INSTRUCTORS

EXPECT MANY STUDENTS

Mrs. A. R. Perrin Dean of Women, Swamped With Inquiry For Rooms —Enrollment Begins Monday

Several additional instructors for the summer term at the College, have been named within the past few days to assist in handling the large number of students expected here. Announcement was made today of five new instructors being added to the faculty.

Miss Alice Callan, art instructor in the Manual High School at Kansas City, has been secured to assist in the art department. Miss Callan took undergraduate work at the University of Missouri and holds a B. S. degree from Columbia University, New York. She has studied at the Chicago Art Academy and Kansas City Art Institute. She taught one summer at the Kansas State Agricultural School at Manhattan, and was formerly supervisor of fine arts at Independence, Mo. She will assist Miss Olive DeLuce this summer. Miss DeLuce who has been requested to attend the American Federation of Arts meeting at St. Louis this week as a representative of the College, will be unable to attend.

Three new instructors have been added to the women's physical education department. Miss Grace Gleerup, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, will conduct classes in swimming and tennis. Miss Julia Babcock, a graduate of the University of Kansas, will be here this summer as an instructor in dancing and gymnasium work. She has also had special training in dancing and gymnasium work at Chicago. Miss Eleanor Brownlee, a graduate of Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo., will have some classes in gymnasium work and swimming. She has also had special training in physical education.

Miss Minnie Keith of Joplin, who for the past four years has been supervisor of penmanship in the high school there, will assist in the college commerce department this summer. Miss Keith is a graduate of the Palmer School and had two years teachers' college experience.

Miss Artie West of Clinton, Mo., arrived in Maryville yesterday and will assist in the library in addition to taking some college work.

Indications point to a record enrollment this summer. Registration begins next Monday and every mail brings many requests for rooms for the summer.

"I am busier now in attempting to find rooms for students, who will be in College here this summer, than I have been in past years after school begins," said Mrs. A. R. Perrin, dean of women this morning. All students who will be here this summer are now inquiring about rooms, said Mrs. Perrin. She takes the names of Maryville residents, who have rooms to rent, and then refers inquiries to them. She said this morning that it would greatly expedite matters if the residents who have already rented their rooms would notify her so she might strike them from her list.

BEST G. O. P. MINDS ADVISING HARDING

BUT ALL ARE FRIENDS OF HIS COURT PLAN

TOUR PLANS PROGRESS

President Will Make Eight Major Speeches—All But One Is Definite

Washington, May 24—President Harding is again calling in "the best minds" in the Republican Party. He is enlisting their aid and thought in the preparation of his numerous speeches which will dot his 15,000 mile trip from Washington to Porto Rico via Alaska this summer. For ten days prominent Republicans have been dropping in at the White House for chats with the President.

Most of the "best minds" have been of the variety friendly to the world court and it is understood they have given the president much valuable ammunition. None of the so-called "Irreconciables," have been called in to date.

Plans for the long trip were so far completed today that railroad officials were called in for consultation as to time schedules. It has finally been decided that the President will make eight major speeches enroute to the Pacific Coast. Starting in St. Louis on the 21st of June he will make his speeches in the following order: St. Louis, Kansas City, Hutchinson, Kansas, Salt Lake City, and Boise, Idaho. The last speech outward will be made either at Seattle or Portland depending upon which point he elects to embark for Alaska.

Mr. Harding will be the first American President to visit Vancouver.

Case Against Crandall Settled Out of Court

He Was Not Charged With Stealing Radio But Receiving Stolen Property

The case against Charles Crandall charged with receiving a stolen radio set, has been settled out of court. Louis Andrews, living near Pleasant Grove Church, contended that the radio had been stolen from him and sold to Charles Crandall. However, Crandall agreed to buy Andrews a new set, and this was satisfactory. The case was dismissed by the prosecuting attorney and Crandall paid the costs.

Crandall was charged with receiving stolen property and not with stealing a radio set, as was stated in Tuesday's Democrat-Forum.

FLOOD THREATEN KANSAS AND OKLA.

FOUR FEET OF WATER IN ONE OKLAHOMA TOWN

SEND FLOOD WARNINGS

Towns Near Topeka Threatened—More Rain Would Aggravate Situation—Much Damage

Oklahoma City, May 24—Railroad communications in Oklahoma were severely impaired today by rising flood waters of the river flowing from the northwestern part of the state. Four feet of water was reported on the main street at Pauls Valley and a bridge across a creek in the center of the town was washed out. The Sante Fe northward bound trains were all delayed. So far no reports of loss of life have been confirmed.

Topeka, Kansas, May 24—Many creeks and rivers of this state this morning are bank full and overflowing, inundating lowlands as a result of heavy rains. Possible flood warnings have been sent by the government weather bureau down the valleys of five Kansas rivers. Some localities report heavy losses of livestock.

With more rain in prospect the situation is acute, but should further rainfall be postponed a day or two, danger would be greatly lessened, S. D Flora of the weather bureau here said. The most menacing situation is in the Solomon valley. An official flood warning was ordered sent out of Beloit late today. A report was received at the weather bureau that a 3.38 inch rain at Smith Center had put the Solomon out of its banks there and that the river was only three feet below flood stage at Kirwin with a prospect that it would overflow down the entire valley to Solomon. A stage of twenty-five feet is predicted for Beloit, or three feet above the flood stage.

Unofficial flood warnings were sent out from Concordia this afternoon because of a big rise coming down the Republican river. Reports to Concordia were that a rain of from 3 to 7 inches had put the Republican out of its banks north of the Nebraska line.

Bottom land farmers along the Cottonwood and Neosho rivers in Morris, Lyon, Chase and Coffey counties were preparing to move out on short notice today. Heavy rains at the sources of both rivers, which join just below Emporia, would cause them to overflow it was feared. They were rising rapidly today.

The Marias des Cygnes was rising rapidly all day, and a warning was issued by the weather bureau late today to Ottawa to be in readiness for a big rise.

Denies U. S. Troops Will Go for Bandits

State Department Denies Use of Troops in China Following Rumor There This Morning.

Washington, May 24.—Official denial was made at the state department today that an order had been issued to Jacob Gould Schurman, American minister to Peking, to employ United States troops against the Chinese train bandits. The department is awaiting further advices from Peking upon the progress of the new negotiations to free the American and other prisoners.

Shanghai, May 24—An unconfirmed press dispatch from Peking today stated that Jacob Gould Schurman, American minister to China, had been instructed by Washington to send American troops to Linchen near the mountain stronghold of the Shantung bandits who are holding a number of American prisoners.

It was also reported that munitions were enroute to Lichen. There is an American garrison at Pien-Tsin, south of Peking on the Shanghai-Peking Railroad.

Mrs. Frank Bickett returned Wednesday evening from a several days' stay at the home of her mother, Mrs. James Patterson, northwest of Maryville. Mrs. Patterson, who has been very ill, is improving.

No thinking man would say that Americans are not, as a whole, kind hearted, indulgent, sympathetic, and generous hearted. With prison conditions being brought into the limelight as they have been by the Florida affairs, he would be brave who would deny that we are also ostrich-like; we shut our eyes to what is unpleasant, and deny that it exists.

Prisons are necessary; society has a right to protect itself against those who break the laws, which all must obey if all are to be safe and happy.

But flogging prisons, prisons where cruelty is practiced, prison positions which are political rewards for deserving party workers, prisons which make unwise but not bad men into criminals, which make criminals worse, which deform mind and body, are not necessary.

When they exist, the fault is not, primarily, with those who keep and manage them. They are certainly not the fault of those society sends to inhabit them. They can truly be blamed upon none but those who permit them; upon the electorate, which shuts its eyes to man's inhumanity to man.

Christian people agree to live by the Golden Rule. Christian people quote Christ and believe that "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have also done it unto me." People of other faiths than Christian who are members of this body politic have equally strong and merciful words of their prophets by which to live, and act, and be their brother's keeper.

Yet we shut our eyes; we put our heads in the sand; we wait until torture, murder, and other outrages against God and decency find their way into print to rouse us to our neglected duty toward those who, no matter how they sin against society, are still human and therefore still made in God's image.

Our section of the country has a jail; those who neither know nor care what kind of a jail it is, should ask themselves with Cain, "Am I my brother's keeper?"

Defeated Federalism Takes Refuge in Sectionalism.

The ship of state, Jefferson announced when he became President, was to be put upon the Republican tack. There alone could she show her true motion and the handiwork of her builders. Defeated and discredited Federalism retreated to its stronghold of New England—and also, as Jefferson complained, into that of the Judiciary; for the Federalists had appointed all the federal judges, including John Marshall, the chief justice. In that stronghold, Jefferson warned his party the remains of Federalism were to be fed from the treasury.

The contest that ensued for the possession of this stronghold, and that finally took on the character of a personal struggle between Jefferson and Marshall, will now illustrate for us the fiereeness of the spirit that marked the birth of parties in the new nation. The Adams administration, the Republicans charged, had sat up nights creating sixteen new federal judgships so the retiring Federalist President could fill the judiciary with his appointees. President Jefferson's congress now repealed these acts and thus legislated these "midnight judges" out of office; the repealing act even went to the length of suspending the sittings of the supreme court for more than a year to keep Marshall from declaring the act unconstitutional. How Marshall retorted to this challenge in his famous decision in Marbury vs. Madison, we have seen.

Jefferson might lash out at the supreme court, as he would, calling it an agency "ever acting with noiseless feet, gaining ground step by step, and engulfing insidiously the state governments," but victory remained with the judiciary; and the President was forced to turn to other departments of the governments to impress the marks of Republicanism. This he did by reducing the army to twenty-five hundred men, which, in Jeffersonian language, was known as a "chaste reformation" of Federalist militarism. The Federalist navy was virtually junked, and the few ships of war that were retained the President wished to have tied up in a Virginia creek, "where it would require but one set of plunderers to watch them." Republicanism then set about removing taxes, including that on whiskey, which had been felt to be a great evil in an age when whisky formed an article of diet. Thus was Republicanism, or "mobocracy," as Federalism termed it, encouraged and strengthened in the country; its many sided leader who would converse in four languages, play the violin, perform a surgical operation, dance the minuet, draw the plans of a building, make an astronomical calculation and break a horse to the saddle, setting the Republican fashion meanwhile by wearing yarn stockings and slippers down at the heels.

Party had now got the start of nationality, a grave circumstance and one that was to bring a train of multiplying evils upon the young republic. If Republican nullification spoke in the Kentucky and Virginia resolutions, Federalist nullification now was to speak in the action of some of the leaders of eastern opinion. New England fears of Republicanism had been brought to a head by Jefferson's purchase of the Louisiana territory. It was felt that this vast southern and western empire would surely throw the old adjustment out of balance and by draining New England of population and capital, leave the older states in a hopeless minority. Embittered Federalism turned, therefore, to a scheme of separation from the union into which it was hoped to carry New England, New York and New Jersey. Its moving spirit was Timothy Pickering, a Massachusetts senator. The plan was to detach as many northern and eastern states as possible and invite Canada and Nova Scotia to join them in setting up a new federal union in which the Federalist party would have a monopoly of government. The Federalists as a party never were committed to this scheme of disunion, though its leaders were aware of it. Adamses, Hamilton, Burr and others were approached. Hamilton had been picked for military command by the ambitious plotters, but they received no countenance from any who could speak for the Federalist party. But the design illustrates how precariously the roots of nationality held in the new soil of America. State attachments, as Gouverneur Morris had said in the Constitutional convention were serpent's teeth. To state attachments now were added party rancors, personal hatreds, jealousy of power. Of these warring interests unity and nationality were the victims. On the one hand was Republicanism holding that the Constitution was a compact between sovereign states which had retained the power to annul it, and on the other was Federalism holding not only that centralized government was a necessity of the Union's design, but that government itself was the business of the elect upon which Jacobinical democracy might not enter.

In the contest neither party rested upon the necessity of nationality. Neither was national in purpose or vision. The constitution was a compromise, and parties interpreted it to party advantage. The necessities of politics were the first consideration. Hamilton, confessing the irregularity of the proceeding, proposes to the governor of New York a plan to deprive Burr of electoral votes; Burr intrigues with the British minister to detach western states from the Union; Republicanism repudiates national laws, Federalism plots secession; Burr shoots Hamilton and Jefferson threatens Marshall with impeachment. If Jefferson could say, in a moment of conciliation, "We are all Republicans, we are all Federalists," it might have been said with more truth that neither yet were Americans.

SHEEP IN CATTLE COUNTRY

Exception to Their Presence Under the Circumstances Was Natural to the Beef Producers.

Then out of a clear sky came the smell of sheep; all was o. k. at first, 'cause the cowmen figured there was plenty of range for everybody, even sheep. But soon enough the sheep kept getting thicker and their range poorer, which started the crowding on the cowman's best bits of country, Will James writes in Scribner's. There were a few parleys without the voice of the "smoke wagon" being heard—but sheep and sheep herders don't have much respect for words or rules or country; so they went at it to start spoiling it all; and the cowmen went on to finishing what the sheepmen had started, with the result that mostly sheepmen and sheep were missing. The government couldn't do much; they'd had to pinch about four states.

The cattlemen won for a spell and all was hunky-dory again, outside of the damage sheep had done to the range. The dust beds they'd made out of the good grassy "benches" were beginning to show signs of life, the air was pure as ever and cattle were getting fat. The cattlemen were all good folks once more and tending to their business in land that was theirs. They were the first to blaze the trail to it; they made that land a big beef-producing country, it was their home, and naturally they wouldn't allow sheep coming along and leaving nothing of it but the bad odor.

Unwritten Page of History.

John Tyler was elected vice president on the same ticket on which William Henry Harrison was elected president, but Harrison had not been in office much more than a month when he was suddenly taken ill and died. Tyler was at his home in Virginia when the news of the death of Harrison reached him. He seemed dazed at its unexpectedness. "You are now president of the United States," said his informant.

Tyler passed his hands across his forehead as though it required an effort to understand the reality of the responsibility which had been thrust upon him so suddenly. One story has it that he was so poor that he had to borrow the money to pay his expenses for the journey to Washington. At all events he hurried there by the first train, took the oath of office and became the occupant of the White House.

Africa Stands High.

Geologists believe Africa is a huge block of the earth's crust, thrust above the ocean's level by some force from deep in the rocks, and held there almost since geological history began. Africa is a continent practically without harbors. The northern portion is generally low and has at different times been covered by the sea. But the southern peninsula, the true "dark continent," is a high plateau. All around its coasts the shores rise steeply out of the water. Rivers pour down the slopes in rapids, or, in the case of Zambezi, the scarp is sheer enough to have generated a waterfall.

Society in Difficult Period, Says Harding

Washington, May 24.—Human society has never faced a more complex or difficult period than that through which it is now passing, President Harding declared today in an address before the American National Council, an organization to promote better citizenship. The one fundamental for Americans to cling to, he said, was that written in the preamble of the Constitution, and he advised an audience of prominent men and women to "get back to it."

Kiwanis Clubs Will Convene in Atlanta

Full Program to be Given at Seventh Annual International Assembly

Atlanta, Ga., May 24—Probably the busiest convention ever entertained in the South from the rapid succession of business and pleasure, will be the seventh anual convention of International Kiwanis Clubs, to begin in Atlanta on May 28 and continue four days. The only period in which something is not set down on the official programme is from 2 a. m. to 8:30 a. m. daily.

The business sessions will start every day the first thing after breakfast and be resumed after lunch. When they are over there will be motor tours and Georgia barbecues and special vaudeville shows, and every night there will be three dances, from 10:30 p. m. to 2 a. m.

Between 5,000 and 6,000 delegates and visitors including an exceptionally large proportion of wives and daughters of Kiwanians, are expected, the advance reservations having passed 4,500 two weeks before the convention dates. International Kiwanis now includes more than 1,000 clubs and nearly 100,000 members in the United States and Canada.

First Memorial Day

One of the features which is attracting nation-wide comment following its announcement will be the first observance of national Memorial Day, May 30, in Atlanta. The Southern States observe their own Confederate Memorial Day, April 21, but through courtesy to the visitors from all over the country Atlanta has arranged for a ceremonial on a large scale ,when tributes will be paid to the memory of veterans of all wars in which the United States engaged. George H. Ross, of Toronto, international president of Kiwanis, will deliver an address, and "The Star Spangled Banner" and "God Save the King" will be played by the combined bands of the convention which will include many visiting musical organizations.

Opens May 28

The convention opens officially on Monday, May 28, with addresses by Governor Thomas W. Hardwick and Mayor Walter A. Sims. The visiting clubs will engage in a glee club singing contest. On Tuesday night the auditorium will be transformed into a scene before the Civil War, the calendar being set back 60 years to give the visitors aglimpse of the old South as contrasted with the new. A log cabin nearly 100 years old, brought from a Georgia plantation's "negro quarters," will be transferred to the auditorium, to be occupied by an ante-bellum darkey couple, their hounds and 'possum dogs and several live 'possums. On the stage will be presented a picture of "Plantation Days," with a big chorus of negro voices heard in old-fashioned camp-meeting hymns.

Real "Georgia Barbecue"

On Wednesday, May 30, the visitors will be guests at a Georgia barbecue, at which 8,000 persons will be served, a famous darkey cook having been brought from a hundred miles away to prepare the feast in the olden style. This will be followed by a Venetian water carnival and interpretative dances, in which prominent Atlanta society girls will take part. All the visitors, too, will be taken for a trip to Stone Mountain, where the million dollar Confederate memorial is being carved on the face of the 700 foot granite cliff.

The thousand or more women visitors will be entertained, while their husbands are attending business sessions by a woman's committee drawn from the Atlanta Woman's Club, which recently was host to the mid-biennial convention of the National Federation of Women's Clubs. The Rotary, Civitan, Lions and other civic organizations each have arranged a special entertainment for one day, and the Presidents' Club, composed of the heads of 75 civic bodies, will give a formal dinner on the evening of May 26 to the international officers and other distinguished guests.

Baldwin Hits Snag in Forming Cabinet

Sir Robert Horne Refused Post in New Cabinet and Austin Chamberlain Is Undecided.

London, May 24—Premier Stanley Baldwin began to strike snags today in his task of reforming England's Tory cabinet. Sir Robert Horne, former chancellor of the exchequer, who was offered that post in the new government, sent word he could not accept owing to personal business.

Austin Chamberlain is due from Paris this afternoon. He has been offered a post in the new government but will probably confer with Sir Robert Horne before he gives a definite answer.

The Tory party is still split as a result of the "offensive" of the Tory Diehards against the Lloyd George coalition ministry which accounts for refusal of certain members to join the Baldwin government.

FRIENDS NOTICED IMPROVEMENT

Wonderful Results from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Beloit, Wis.—"My female trouble was brought on by overwork. I had worked in stores and had to do heavier work than my strength could stand, and had to be on my feet most of the time. Finally I had to give up this work entirely and stay at home. Doctor's medicine did not give me much relief, and my mother wanted me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took a couple of bottles of it and thought it did not help me as much as it should, so I gave it up to try something else. Nothing I took helped me much, so I finally decided to give the Vegetable Compound another trial and to take enough of it to make sure it would help me. I have taken it over a year now and it has brought wonderful results. I have gained from 93 to 110 pounds and am keeping house now. My friends all notice the change in my health. I will be glad to answer all letters that women write to me about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. W. G. MONSON, 1515 Park Ave., Beloit, Wis.

Mrs. Monson is willing to write to any woman suffering from such troubles.

LATE TELEGRAPH NEWS

St. Louis, May 24—Max Brittachneidier, Jr., a youth lying injured in a hospital here thinks he will soon be able to ride his bicycle home when his injuries are healed—but he won't.

Not that Max has been permanently injured but he has no bike to ride. An autoist who knocked Max from his bicycle asked a passerby to take the vehicle to a neighborhood police station. The bicycle and passerby thereupon disappeared. Max doesn't know it yet but he won't ride home.

Kennett, Mo., May 24—Recent heavy rains, sandstorms, wind and cold weather have damaged Missouri's cotton crop this year to the extent that about one-third of the crop will be lost to the growers.

Along the St. Francois river and the drainage ditches, all of which overflowed, inundating thousands of acres of the best land in Dunklin county, the soil will not be dry enough for replanting in time to insure a profitable yield. Heavy winds and sandstorms ruined a big part of the crops on higher grounds which escaped the overflow waters.

About twenty per cent of the cotton serege will have to be replanted in the Sikeston district, Scott county, due to heavy rain and cold weather the past two weeks. About half the New Madrid county acreage in the low lands was damaged by overflows and will be replanted.

The cotton acreage in Stoddard county was only half planted and much of it will have to be replanted according to word from that section.

Kansas City, Mo., May 24—According to information received here from the office of the chief of the air service of the United States army nine battle planes from Xell Field, San Antonio, Texas will be furnished for a demonstration of aviation combat to be held for the officers in the staff school of the United States army stationed in Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

The demonstration will begin June 15 and on June 22, maneuvers will be conducted daily from Richards Field. The planes that will take part in the meet represent the various types of combat planes used in the regular military service. One of the features of the meet will be daily aerial battles by planes in pursuit. They will operate between Richards fields and Fort Leavenworth.

Lone Valley Echoes

Most of the corn planted, but at least two of our neighbors who are putting in large acreages will not get done this week even with favorable weather. A little replanting is being done by those who planted early.

Mr. and Mrs. Ave Carmichael sold 2 doz. of their early frys last week at 32 cents a lb. and 3 doz. this week at 30 cents a lb. All averaged about 2¼ lbs. apiece.

Mr. and Mrs. Irv Perry and Mr. and Mrs. John Kneisley enjoyed ice cream at Ed Van Pelts Monday evening.

Among those who went visiting Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Ave Carmichael and children at Guy Eads' and Mrs. Murphy's in Maryville. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Workman's at Wm. Dougherty's near Elmo. Enis Pence and family at Orville Coulter's. John Wagner and family at Mrs. Wagner's parents in Maryville. Her father has been quite poorly with heart trouble. Chas. Pierson and family with relatives at Skidmore. Ed Van Pelt and family and Dug Heller and family of New Market, Iowa at Jno. Kneisley's. Harry Zook and family at Mrs. Mary Wagner and son's.

Calvin and Neva McMahan of near Barnard spent the first of the week at Joe McMahan's and J. H. Carmichael's.

This neighborhood is proud to have three eighth grade graduates Misses Mayme Pierson and Zoe Keith from Lone Valley and Raymond Carmichael from Sun Rise.

Those who attended the county graduating exercises at the S. T. C. Saturday afternoon besides the graduates were Chas. Pierson and son, Dale, Mrs. J. R. Carmichael, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Carmichael and Geo. Kunkel.

Chas. Neal was trading in Pickering Tuesday.

THAT BAD BACK.

Do you have a dull, steady ache in the small of the back—sharp, stabbing twinges when stopping or lifting—distressing urinary disorders? For bad back and weakened kidneys Maryville residents recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Read this Maryville statement.

Miss M.H. Donahue, 724 North Mulberry Street, says: "My back caused me a great deal of trouble and I felt miserable and worn out. Sharp shooting pains often caught me in the small of my back. My back was lame and sore and occasionally dizzy spells came over me and left me in a weak condition. A friend advised Doan's Kidney Pills and two boxes not only brought great relief but completely cured me. I am glad to say these few words in praise of such a good reliable remedy as Doan's Kidney Pills."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Miss Donahue had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N.Y.

To Assess Damages for Right-of-Ways

Commissioners were appointed in Circuit Court late yesterday afternoon to assess damages for land which have been condemned by the state highway commission to be used on the state highway near Burlington Junction. The property owners from which the land will be taken are S. H. Williams, Ernest Boyer, Mary Scott, and Grace Woods.

It was necessary to introduce evidence to show that some offer had been made to these porperty owners before ordering the appointment of the commissioners. Sufficient evidence was presented in the cases of S. H. Williams, Ernest Boyer and Mary Scott. The case of Grace Woods will be taken up later this afternoon as it is necessary to get in touch with the state highway commission.

The court selected W. C. Pierce of Maryville, Tom Fleming of Graham and E .W. Bishop of Ravenwood to view and assess damages on each of the pieces of land described in the petition to be condemned and to report their action to the court.

The highway commission states this land is necessary for the right-of-way of the highway.

Educator Predicts School Year 'Round

Washington, May 24 — (Capital News Service)—Will boys and girls in the near future go to school seven hours a day, fifty-two weeks in the year? Some educators think such a plan will be required if the present pressure of out-of-school activities continues to increase.

"The social activities engaged in by the high school pupils, while a source of interference to their studies, are a part of the present-day order of things," says Assistant Superintendent of the Schools of the Nation's Capital. "The pupils of to-day have distractions unknown a generation ago.

"The condition must be met by having the schools readjust themselves to meet the situation. Our junior high schools in the immediate future will have extra-hour days when the pupils will have supervised study hours. This will permit them to do their home work before they leave the school—before they are distracted.

"Within ten years or so the schools will be operating on a year round basis. In this way they will be divided into four quarters. A pupil missing the second or third quarter because of illness can take that quarter in the fourth. A pupil will at that time be permitted to select any three quarters in which to pursue his course. The pupil taking all four quarters will finish more quickly."

Hyde Signs Memorial Day Proclamation

Jefferson City, May 24—Governor Hyde has issued a proclamation setting apart Wednesday, May 30, as Memorial Day, and urging all the people of Missouri to join with the patriotic organizations in offering tribute to the dead soldiers and sailors. He also recommends that the public schools of the state join in reviewing the deeds of sacrifice and of patriotism of our national heroes.

"Citizenship," the governor says, "in this great republic is ennobled by the sacrifices of those who gave their lives to its service, and it is fitting that we should make frequent rededication of ourselves to the aims of our national unity. Alike by honored custom and by law, May 30 of each year has been set aside as Memorial day, upon which the memory of the soldier dead of teh nation can be honored, their services and sacrifices for the nation appreciated and their last resting place decorated with the flowers which so aptly symbolize both the glory of their memory and the immortality of their service."

It seems that the automobile is doing for the "innocent bystander" what the man with a gun used to do.

Amer. Dairy Lunch to Be Found in Paris

By ALICE LANGELIER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Paris, May 24—A real American dairy lunchroom, with one-armed chairs n'everything is an innovation at the New York Art School of Applied Arts in the picturesque old Place de Vosges.

In Paris and in fact all over France shops close and business stops for two hours, from midday till two o'clock. Tihs is the sacred hour of the "dejeuner," one of the most important hours of the day.

A good French dinner is a work of art in itself, but the director of the New York Art School thinks that it is a stone in the path of those who are trying to attain the higher heights. Light meals are hard to find in Paris and too much time is lost in getting through the many courses of the usual French meal.

"Besides," says the director, "after eating too heartily at midday a student's mental and physician alertness is impaired and he gets much less out of the afternoon classes."

The student will be given one hour for lunch and will find nourishing food in a clean lunchroom. Sandwiches and milk will replace heavy meats and vegetables.

She was accompanied to Conception Junction by Mrs. Herren who will return home tonight. Mrs. Lorance will also visit her brother, George Toel, and Mrs. Toel, in St. Joseph before returning to Des Moines.
